About the middle of the ninth century, when Photius was Patriarch of Constantinople, the seeds of Christianity were first sown in Russia. In the year 910 a Christian Church existed at Kieff, although it had little hold upon the people of the country, who were steeped in Paganism. The establishment of the Church of Russia really dates from the year 992, when Prince Vladimir and his people accepted Christianity. Paganism was abolished. Perun, the God of Thunder, the chief of the Russian idols, was overthrown. The Court and the Boyars, and the great multitude of the people, flocked to the rivers, and in them received as a nation baptism from the Greek Bishops and Priests.
